Music Pupils Give Good Piano Recital

The music pupils of Mrs. A. D. Glasgow gave a very enjoyable piano recital for relatives and friends at Mrs. Glasgow's home on the evening of June 23.

Those who attended this happy occasion were pleased to note what a number of talented young folk we have growing up in our district and also to see the interest and encouragement Mrs. Glasgow gives in their achievement. The following program was well presented:

"The Wigwag in the Forest" and "The Sea Captain's Story," Stella Bridgeman. "The Happy Farmer" and "Waves of the Danube" Margaret Orzechak. "Shubert's Improvisation," a duet by Ian Inglis and Wayne Pendleton. "Dream Boat" and "Crisis Cross," Isabel Inglis.

"A Spanish Fiesta" and "To a Sky Scraper," Dorothy Joan McLoughlin. "Sorrowful Nights," and "The Donkey," Lorraine Savard. "Peasant Dance" and "Sonatina," Nissen. "A Curious Story" and "Country Dance" Della Mae Symington.

At the close of the program Della Mae Symington spoke of Mrs. Glasgow's good work and on behalf of the music pupils presented her with a beautiful set of fine glassware. Mrs. Glasgow warmly expressed her thanks and told of the real enjoyment she has when working among these young folk and watching their progress.

A beautiful lunch and a pleasant hour over the tea cups brought the evening to a close.

Glen-Coa Gleanings

A number of Sharon folk motored to Donalds last Saturday, June 23, to attend the wedding of Rev. Lawrence Likness to Miss Doreen Anderson. An account will appear next week.

Both teachers and pupils look forward to holidays now. To the Grade IX pupils of Glenholm, Lily MacKay and Warren Fuder, we wish the best of luck. Nor would we forget Evelyn Erickson, who is writing Grade 12 at Canrose Lutheran College. Success to you Evelyn!

On Thursday evening, June 19, Sharon Luther League presented a program primarily to honor our two young pastors, Rev. Curtis Satre and Rev. Lawrence Likness. A service flag was dedicated. Avis Satre and Norma Likness had the honor of placing a cross each on it for their respective brothers. After a delicious lunch of ice cream and cake, Mrs. Raasok, League pres., presented the boys with a beautiful desk set each. Best wishes go with the boys as they prepare to leave for their fields of service. Rev. Curtis Satre to Vancouver, B.C., and Rev. Lawrence Likness to Port Arthur, Ont.

Because of the muddy roads the scheduled service at Sharon last Sunday was an impossibility. Pastor Knudsen has announced the Communion service for next Sunday evening at Sharon at 8 p.m.

Miss Betty MacKay has returned to her work in Wataskwin after spending some time here with her sister Mrs. T. Larson.

There will be an FUA meeting at Ross School on Monday, June 30, at 8:30 p.m. Please attend. Important business. Lunch will be served.

Golden Wedding Party Honors Former Residents

Take a pleasant English couple, more than thirty years hard work on a prairie farm, spiced with service to the community, and a period of comfortable retirement in the climate of Langley and you get an explanation of why Mr. and Mrs. George Pheseay observed their Golden Wedding anniversary last Tuesday, May 20.

The honored couple marked the anniversary at their home on the Trans-Canada Highway next to Central Motors. The day was spent quietly but old friends and neighbors, mostly from the prairies, inducing a pleasant surprise party in the evening. A good neighbor and friend, Mr. and Mrs. Pheseay to go for a drive around the community in the evening and upon returning they found the house filled with friends.

It was May 20, 1902, in Chapel Hill, Frith, Derbyshire, England, when George Pheseay then 21, took for his bride, Ellen Lomas, 24, of the St. Thomas, Becket Parish Church. Mr. Pheseay was a calligrapher in the textile industry; his bride had come from her father's farm.

In 1907 the young couple sailed for Canada on the "Victorian," and arrived in Edmonton in early March. Mr. Pheseay worked on a farm near Edmonton and then took up his own farm in 1915 at Irma, Alberta. For over thirty years Mr. and Mrs. Pheseay worked hard on their farm south of Mannville near Vermilion in the Buffalo Coulees of Alberta. During this time Mr. Pheseay served the district council for 25 continuous years. For 22 years he was councillor for Buffalo Coulees and continued on for three more years when local district was formed. Every year except the first year of the enlarged district he was elected by acclamation.

Mr. Pheseay has also been a member of the Elks Lodge for a number of years and spends all his spare time now in helping the local aerie and its new meeting hall. He finds time as well to look after a few chickens and a trim garden on the city lot.

They have two children, Mrs. Elsie Smith of Langley Prairie, and a son, Arthur, who is carrying on the farm in Alberta. There are four grandchildren. A disappointment last Tuesday was that Arthur and his family were unable to be present for the 50th wedding anniversary celebration.

Besides a wonderful time of reminiscing with former neighbors, Mr. and Mrs. Pheseay were presented Tuesday night with a special anniversary cake, and tokens of good will. Gifts included Mrs. D. Barber, California; Mr. and Mrs. James E. Dayton, Sumas; Mr. and Mrs. James Currey, Whalley; Mr. and Mrs. A. Charter, Mr. and Mrs. Lee McCollum and Mr. W. Cole, all of White Rock; Mr. and Mrs. Allen Kennedy and son Glen, Mr. and Mrs. Harry Pheseay, Mr. and Mrs. Len Pheseay, Mr. and Mrs. W. A. Burton, Mr. and Mrs. Geo. Chahley, Mr. and Mrs. Font New, and Mr. and Mrs. E. Foxwell, all of Vancouver; Mr. and Mrs. Bernice Holland, Miss Diane Holland, Mr. Sep. Harle, New Westminster; Mr. and Mrs. Herman Eyben, Mr. and Mrs. Albert Eyben, Mr. Ronnie Eyben, Mr. and Mrs. John Lawrence, Mr. and Mrs. Earl Hicks, Mr. and Mrs. A. Piper, and Mr. R. Piper, Cloverdale; Mr. and Mrs. G. Charter, Miss Irene Charter, Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Monteton, Mr. and Mrs. S. B. McKague, Mr. and Mrs. Fred Fyfe, Mrs. Zylph Meyer, Mr. and Mrs. W. J. H. Marshall and Mrs. Elsie Smith, all of Langley.

India Representatives Will Tour M.D. Wainwright

Mr. Chas. Wilbraham, Secretary-Treasurer of the MD Wainwright advises that he has received a communication from the Dept. of Municipal Affairs, Government of Alberta, that two Junior Administrators of the Pakistan Government will visit the MD during the third week in July to study all forms of Municipal, School and Hospital-Administration and Provincial-Municipal relations, and to see as much as possible of Canadian family and social life.

The visit to Alberta is made up of 6 Civil servants, 2 will be posted to the County of Vulcan, 2 to the County of Grand Prairie and 2 as stated above will come to the MD of Wainwright No. 61.

The Government of Pakistan has requested this as part of Canada's contribution under the Colombo Programme for Technical Co-operation in South and South-East Asia, the group of 12 arrived in Canada during the latter part of April on a five months training course.

The officials of the MD of Wainwright appear to be very happy and consider it an honor to be amongst the Local Governments of the Province to be selected, and we trust that the Service Clubs and Corporations of the Town of Wainwright and the District will make some contribution to the programme to be arranged, so that these two young men from Pakistan, India, will be able to take back to their "Modern States in an Ancient Land" some knowledge of our western ways of living and happy memories of their week's stay in the MD of Wainwright.

Jarrow News

Mr. Ted Skori was a city visitor during the week.

Mrs. Clarence Lovig and family have been visiting with relations and friends in the Jarrow and Irma districts, while Clarence is a business visitor to the States.

Mr. and Mrs. Bert Yakes have returned to the Coast after spending the last two months on their farm south of town.

The Irma Hobo tea have sounded so interesting that the Jarrov W.A. decided to try them too. So far we just have reports from one group of hobos, but from all reports they had a gala time. One poor hobo was even caught in her pyjamas, but after much discussion of the other hobos it was decided to let her change before they proceeded on to their very surprised hostess. When asked for comments they all agreed they were the real thing but too many might be a wee bit hard on the waist line!

Don't forget the date of the big Jarrov Sports on July 16. Get your entries in early for your ball teams. Mrs. Mullin and son of Edmonton are visiting with Mrs. Mullin's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Gill Comely.

Shower Honors Bride

Last Saturday afternoon "Messdames Archie Cook and Howard Oldham were joint hostesses in the latter's home when about thirty ladies gathered to honor Mrs. Wm. Lawson (nee Hazel Younker) with a shower.

Entertainment was provided in the form of several interesting contests conducted by Mrs. Cook and Mrs. Willerton.

The bride was then asked to step forward while little Carol and Ruth Oldham drew in their prettily decorated wagon, followed by Irene Meyers and Joyce Cook carrying a decorated wash tub, both filled with gifts.

In a few well chosen words Mrs. Willerton presented the gifts and all our good wishes to Hazel. After Hazel, assisted by Myrtle McCullen, had opened the gifts and passed them around, she then thanked the ladies for their kindness. A lovely lunch was served by the hostess assisted by Misses Joyce Cook and Phyllis Hicox and Mrs. Walker, bringing a pleasant afternoon to a close.

An F.A.O. Report

AS THE NATIONS OF EUROPE recovered from the effects of the war, the production of food crops was resumed and less has been heard in recent years of the great need for wheat and other foodstuffs there. In this connection the Food and Agriculture Organization of the United Nations reports that although there is now normal production in many parts of the world where there was little or none during the war, the volume of the principal food crops in many European countries and in the Far East is still below the pre-war level. However, world food production has increased by some nine per cent. over the figure for the four years before the war, that is, from 1934 to 1938.

Supplies Are Not Adequate

However, the report of the Food and Agriculture Organization points out that the world population has increased by thirteen per cent. since 1936, so although production is now greater than it was before the war, the per capita amount of food is below the level for the pre-war years. At that time the world food supply was not considered to be adequate, and now it is considerably less. As we know, food is not distributed equally throughout the world, and in countries like our own, where there is usually a surplus of agricultural products, few of the people are hungry.

Production Is Now Greater

In some parts of Europe and in the Far East, however, supplies are far from adequate and one of the great social problems of our times is to help the people of these countries to achieve higher standards of living. At this time it falls to the great food-producing countries of the Western Hemisphere, including Canada, to supply those countries whenever it is possible to do so. Production has increased since the war and it is expected that the world food crop will be larger in 1952 than it was in the preceding year. Canada is fortunate to be one of those countries where an abundance of food can be grown, but our good fortune carries with it a responsibility to contribute to the solution of the great world problems which centre around the low living standards of many thousands of people in other lands.

Alberta Meeting Half Of Canada's Daily Oil Needs

Alberta oil production continues to break all previous records and is now close to 200,000 barrels daily, which is about half the oil this country uses in a day.

Daily average for the week ended May 26 was a new peak at 196,013 bbls. compared with 186,172 bbls. the previous record established in the week ended May 19.

Redwater again has the largest production—89,568 bbls. against 88,728 bbls. the previous week. Leduc production rose from 22,471 to 22,721 bbls. daily.

Frank McMahon president of Pacific Petroleum advances some reasons in his 1951 report why he expects the western oil boom to continue to expand.

"The . . . 135 gas and oil discoveries made during the past 16 months in Western Canada give abundant proof of the possibilities for successful development. Under the stimulus of one long distance oil pipeline sharply expanding its capacity, one major oil pipeline under construction, and the authorization of natural gas export by the Alberta Government—the three projects involving almost $300 million—there is every reason to believe that exploration, drilling and production rates will continue their rapid expansion."—The Financial Post.

GRATITUDE

A lifelong pedestrian bought a bicycle. On his way home to the suburbs he had to make a call and left the bicycle outside the shop. Having made his purchase, he forgot the bicycle and, from force of habit, boarded a bus.

On his arrival home his wife, much to his astonishment, reminded him that he had gone away in the morning on his bike. He took the next bus for the city and to his surprise found the bicycle where he had left it.

As a token of his appreciation of the honesty of his fellow citizens he decided to make an offering to the less fortunate ones. So he cycled to a church and deposited a contribution in the poor-box.

With his heart full of joy he left the church and found that his bicycle had gone.

Mine Town Becoming Model Of Cleanliness

NATAL, B.C.—Sparwood, two miles west of here in the picturesque Crow's Nest Pass area, doesn't look like a coal-mining town.

It is, in fact, the realization of a dream long held by planners of the Crow's Nest Pass Coal Company. For years housewives whose husbands worked at the mines put up with the grime and soot from coke ovens and slag piles at nearby Natal and Michel.

But in Sparwood, housewives can forget the coal mines. They live in clean, comfortable bungalows in a well-planned residential town which the coal company hopes will soon replace grimy Natal and Michel entirely.

The project started in 1939 when the company built six houses with a limited expansion in 1940. But after the war they decided to broaden the plan and today there are 50 houses in Sparwood with another 25 going up this year.

Lots in Sparwood are sold to company employees for $1 each. Others must pay $250 for a lot.

Space has been set aside for a commercial district, well away from the residential area, which includes a large playground for children.

Work will start late this summer on a new $425,000 high school. In addition to six classrooms, the school will contain a home economics room, industrial arts shop, drafting room, library and study hall, science room, lunch room and a combination gymnasium and auditorium.

The school will be finished in September, 1953. By that time the town of Sparwood will be well on the way to being one of the brightest mining towns in Western Canada.

TOURIST RECORD EXPECTED FOR 1952

OTTAWA.—Resources Minister Winters said that this may be a record tourist year for Canada.

He said in a statement that prospects are suggested by a record number of April entries of automobiles on travellers' vehicle permits, taken as a usually reliable indication of tourist trends.

Mr. Winters said there were 96,378 permit entries for the month, 12 per cent. up from the corresponding month last year and an all-time record for April.

Finds Wild West Tales Tame Compared With War Adventures

CALGARY.—Wild west tales about trigger-happy cowboys and war-painted Indians of the old days don't fascinate Edith Collet, a recent arrival from Liverpool, England.

She finds western tales tame compared with her wartime adventures in England with an anti-aircraft battery.

Baseball is one thing that has captured the fancy of Miss Collet, recently appointed junior Red-Cross field organizer for southern Alberta with headquarters in Calgary. Her English accent echoes through the stands at every game she attends.

Baseball is only one phase of Canada's life that Edith has found interesting. She was introduced to Alberta's special brand of square dancing at a giant square dance festival here and now she's all set to buy herself a flowered skirt and all the trimmings.

Miss Collet graduated from the University of Liverpool where she studied social science and town planning.

Suggests Battleford As Centre For Sask. 50th Anniversary

BATTLEFORD, Sask.—The historic town of Battleford has been suggested as one of the chief centres for official observances when Saskatchewan celebrates her 50th anniversary in 1955. Town Councillor Joe Kuliner has launched a movement to have Battleford, a capital of the Northwest Territories when they included Saskatchewan and Alberta, play an important role in the province's golden jubilee celebrations.

As early as 1800 the Hudson's Bay company established posts at the junction of the Battle and North Saskatchewan rivers in west-central Saskatchewan about 75 miles northwest of Saskatoon.

The Royal Northwest Mounted Police established their regional headquarters at Battleford and it was from that fort that R.N.W.M.P. went to quell the disturbance at Duck Lake after the Riel rebellion broke out in 1885.

After a defeat at Duck Lake and being besieged at Fort Pitt, the Mounties withdrew to Battleford. As the fortunes of battle changed they received the surrender of Poundmaker of the Stoney Indians at Battleford.

It was in Battleford that the Saskatchewan Herald, the first newspaper west of Winnipeg, was published in 1878. The town also boasts the oldest Roman Catholic and Anglican churches in the province.

Battleford people take their town's history casually and the town of North Battleford has become the commercial centre of the area but Councillor Kulliner feels that the town's colorful part in the province's history deserves recognition.

Weekly Newspapers

Keeping Tab
On Pulse
Of Nation(By Bruce West in Toronto Globe & Mail)

While sitting reading the Huntville Forester the other day, it occurred to me how vastly important was the weekly newspaper in the national scheme of things. And what a powerful voice is represented by the combined efforts of these hundreds of small community papers spread across the length and breadth of the land.

Every now and then, on the metropolitan dailies, some of us get illusions of grandeur. We see our giant presses rumbling out hundreds of thousands of copies of our papers, see the teletypes and the telegraphs chattering madly, the big trucks tearing off to all points of the compass, hear the newsmen shouting on the streets.

And the mammoth size of the operation sometimes dazzles us into the idea that we're fairly big players in the journalistic world. In a sense, I suppose, the size and circulation of a newspaper is important. But I often wonder whether our vastness is not a handicap, occasionally, in getting close to the people we serve and whose feelings we are supposed to reflect accurately.

The best newspaper brains on the largest dailies in the United States, for instance, wrote of Harry Truman with great enthusiasm at the time of his election. But Harry proved they were wrong. If they had been reflecting accurately the mood of their country, they would have been right.

I don't know, but it seems to me that you wouldn't catch a weekly newspaper editor being wrong very often about the winner of an election in his community. And it strikes me that it's more important to be right about a few things than wrong about a lot of people.

The weekly newspaper editor usually has time to light up his pipe, stretch out his feet and talk with the subscribers. It's not a daily newspaper editor's fault that he can't do this. A big daily has a way of chewing ravenously at his time. In the case of the weekly editor, he may often, in one day, exchange opinions with a cabinet minister, a mayor, a housewife and the president of the town's largest industry. These exchanges are not made by no means, but formal. The chances are, if the editor has been in his chair for some time, that he recorded the birth, high school graduation, marriage of one or all of these subscribers. In which case Subscriber William Jones becomes known to Tom Jones' boy. And an editor who will be fooled at best concerning the attitude of William Jones is not likely to be misled very far by Tom Jones' boy.

Out of this intimate and friendly relationship there must surely grow that most magic of all journalistic ingredients, sometimes called the ability to "keep a finger on the public pulse." If this bond has been well and truly forged, no newspaper can fail to be important, even though its entire list of subscribers could be mustered in a small community hall. All of us go through life to some extent trying to make our lone, small voice heard mid the clamor of the multitude, which sounds all around us. Whenever some publication is close enough to us to reflect our articulate and our loneliness is alleviated in some degree.

In this respect the weekly editor occupies a golden chair, a chair of great dignity and great responsibility. He has been given the opportunity of acting as the voice and, in many ways, the conscience, of the place in which he lives. And this small town or village, multiplied, is Canada.

The golden chair, of course, is not without its lumps. It is a little difficult to throw the book at a local political candidate and then be confronted with his injured and reproachful countenance the very next day, or even on the same day, in the case of the weekly newspaper, the so-called man on the street can cease being one by merely taking a few dozen steps into the editor's office.

Not only that, but the weekly editor may have to interrupt his written discourse of the local situation to help a customer compose a classified ad offering a washing machine for sale. This may be awkward at first, but it is a little thing which is educational. Sometimes the problem of the lady who wants to sell her washing machine can bring the editor's attention to a little cleaner perspective. Such incidents can serve as a sort of decompression chamber for those who have been prowling about rather deeply in the world's affairs.

Perhaps the daily newspaper, trying to keep pace with the events of a fast-moving world, has introduced the atmosphere in which it serves. Readers who in a few short years may forget Stalin's first name are

Western Canada is heavily dependent on the favor of the weather man, for lack of rainfall is the great limiting factor in the production of our grain crops.

The value of the recent rains which fell over most of the prairie agricultural region can be better appreciated by taking a look at the principal factors that govern our weather, and thus our crop production. The earlier dry spell quite understandably was the cause of much apprehension. It was ended just in time to save this year's crops in many areas.

Low humidity, however, is a problem. The temperature on the prairies ranges from extreme cold in winter to extreme heat in summer. There is low rainfall and comparatively light snowfall. In winter the ground freezes hard, tending to hasten spring run-off and waste water. In summer high-velocity winds mean a high evaporation rate.

The mountain barrier west of the prairie region cuts off the moisture-laden winds from the Pacific, and is the principal topographical factor in making the prairies a comparatively dry country.

In summer the weather is largely dominated by air masses which have been heated over the continent. Sometimes a northern movement of air from the Arctic, or a cold front, brings very high temperatures in July when the wheat is full of seed. The weather is variable, depending largely on the juxtaposition of Polar and Gulf of Mexico air masses. The tropical Gulf air travels short great distances and is the source of the heaviest precipitation in the Canadian west. Rain falling when the warm moisture-laden air from the Gulf meets a Polar front. The timing of these storms is of great importance to Canada.

If the timing of the Polar-Gulf fronts causes rain in May and June it means a good crop of wheat, especially. If the rain comes too late or not at all—a dry year—the Canadian wheat crop can be lowered by several hundred millions of bushels. Total annual precipitation on the prairies averages less than 15 inches and through most of the grain belt the mean annual precipitation is less than 20 inches. It is also subject to wide variation from year to year, which is the primary cause of the fluctuations in the size of the Canadian wheat crop. Fortunately, 60 to 75 per cent of the annual precipitation usually falls during the growing season. If this were not so the west would not be the granary of Canada. Our great expanse of level prairie allows free movement of winds of high velocity, causing evaporation of moisture and soil drifting, which greatly increases during drought periods. Soil erosion ranks next to lack of moisture as a limiting factor on crop returns. Under these conditions of climate one would imagine there would be a far better appreciation than there is of the need to practice proper water conservation on the prairies.

The Techniques
Conservation of snow and rain—storing of spring run-off to preserve water tables, irrigation and drainage methods that fit in with water conservation, planting and conservation of farm woodlots, rough stubble-mulch cultivation, supplemented by better soil-building practices, use of drought resistant grasses and games in crop rotation—these techniques that should be far more extensively practiced on the prairies.

Not likely to forget the day Aunt Maggie won the prize for the best cake at the fall fair. Or that Elmer Smith's hound trotted out the side road one day and turned up three weeks later 50 miles away in Jackson's Junction.

And I'll be hanged if I can say for sure which is the more important. It's getting a lot of publicity these days, but for I know, Elmer Smith may have had a pretty good hound.

To Shoot Or Not, That Is The Question Playwright Proposes

LONDON.—If a burglar disturbs your beauty sleep, should you do about it? Get out the old shooting iron or take it lying down? Sir Alan Herbert, playwright, wit and former parliamentarian, whose logical mind often rebels at the little quirks in British law, poses the question.

His own answer, as outlined in an article in the Sunday Times is that a private citizen who catches a burglar red-handed has not only a right, but a duty, to arrest him. If the burglar, "having notice thereof resists or flees," the householder, says Sir Alan, should take up the nearest weapon, smite the intruder shout promptly set off a lively correspondence, with most readers in favor of showing no mercy at all. Viscount Halsbury, better known as Quintin Hogg when he was a Conservative member of the House of Commons, challenged the idea that any householder should feel bound to "chase his quarry through the darkness clad in pyjamas and barefooted."

From Chipping Sodbury in Gloucestershire, 52-year-old Bertram Horne wrote to say he had two friends murdered in their beds by burglars, had no intention of suffering a similar fate and considered it fair warning that a sign in his basement window read:

"Warning: burglars will be shot on sight."

Horne said he has shot every species of vermin and hopes to add a burglar to the list. His bloodthirsty words appeared below this advice from a reader in Oxford, attributed to a learned judge:

"Take a double-barrelled gun, carefully load both barrels, and then, without attracting the burglar's attention, aim steadily at his heart and shoot him dead."

Because it is sealed in the system there is no loss of the chemical compound. There is a small consumption of fuel—gasoline or electricity—used to operate the heating unit that converts the liquid initially into vapor.

Buying Food For Fifty Guests

Such a special occasion demands fancy sandwiches that taste as good as they look. Here we have ribbon and checkerboard sandwiches as they look. Here we have ribbon and checkerboard sandwiches as they look. Here we have ribbon and checkerboard sandwiches as they look.

If you are planning to serve sandwiches at the wedding reception, you'll want them to be as pretty as they are palatable, and for such a special occasion, the fancy pinwheel, ribbon and checkerboard sandwiches are popular.

When you start out to make the sandwiches, allow yourself plenty of room. See that the cutting knives are sharp, and have all your materials right at hand. The bread should be twenty-four hours old, and of close firm texture. If the bread is too fresh put it in the refrigerator, and if too stale, wrap it in a damp cloth for a while. The butter will spread easily if it's one day old. If you want to stretch it, mix equal quantities of butter and mayonnaise, whipping together well.

Artificial Lens Of Plastic
Restores Sight For Woman

VANCOUVER.—An artificial lens, made of plastic and smaller than an ordinary contact lens, has restored the sight of a woman here. Blinded by cataracts in both eyes for 10 years, Mrs. M. Bogert, 57, of Enderby, B.C., underwent the first-known operation of its kind in North America, it was reported by surgeons at the Vancouver General Hospital.

The artificial lens, was placed inside her left eye after it was milled to the same shape as the natural lens.

"I can see my daughter's features for the first time in 10 years," said Mrs. Bogert now staying at the home of the daughter in Vancouver.

"Now I can hardly wait to see my other four children."

Surgeons here followed the technique evolved by Dr. Harold Ridley of London, England. He has performed 25 such operations in England.

In a routine operation, a cataract was removed from Mrs. Bogert's right eye, but surgeons feared a similar operation on her left might leave her totally blind for life. Prior to the operations she was able to distinguish between light and dark, but that was all.

She consented to the new operation on her left eye and the placing of the plastic lens in replacement of the natural lens. The plastic is the same shape as the natural lens, but the perspective view used in the hatch covers of fighter planes.

"I was surprised at first that I could see when I woke up with a new lens in my eye," said Mrs. Bogert. "I said a little prayer."

Canada's First
Japanese War
Bride Arrives Soon

OTTAWA.—The first Japanese war bride of a Canadian soldier will arrive in Canada soon.

Her husband is Pte. E. G. Grimshaw, whose records list his address as General Delivery, Calgary, but whose parents live at Kingston-on-Thames, England.

Army authorities said they did not yet know if Mrs. Grimshaw would arrive on a troop ship or by civilian transport.

She is one of ten Japanese girls who have married men of the 29th Canadian Infantry Brigade Group. The names of the other nine husbands have not been disclosed, but one is a sergeant, two are corporals, five are privates and one is a gunner. They come from all over Canada.

At the request of the brides, the Canadian Red Cross is organizing a course at Kure, Japan, to give the girls some idea of the Canadian way of life.

According to the army, Canadian soldiers are "quite free" to marry Japanese girls, but the brides have to be cleared by the Immigration Department and meet citizenship requirements before they can come to Canada. The clearance includes a security check.

If they qualify, the Government pays their fare to Canada.

Gold Can Opener
Returned To Store

CLEVELAND.—The gold-plated, jewel-studded can opener that a department store sold by mistake has been returned.

The store announced the purchaser, Anthony Bontempo, has been rewarded $100.

A clerk mistakenly gave Bontempo the fancy can opener—which was on display and insured for several thousand dollars—when all he asked for was an ordinary can opener.

Bontempo said he didn't want the jeweled opener. When he read what he had in the newspapers, he made a quick call to the store.

My Birthday

Eight score and six the years reveal
That time has given me to seal,
The backward, glancing season's past
With future vistas wide and vast
I have a store of memories,
So full of heart experiences,
That some were sad beyond recall
Some were so ripe with naught of gall,
That earthly gold could not repay
If all this wealth were taken away,
Love and the golden dreams of youth—
Grief stirred also therewith in truth,
And all life's beauties in array
Mixed with the bitter and the gray,
Ideals opened visions wide,
Of hope and progress filled with pride,
And so strode along slow or with stress,
The fruit of joy in eminence,
Brought to each sorrow recompence,
So that today I feel, alas!
What soon and what joy let pass.
Now in my calendar's 86th year,
My dearest ones today a-near,
Have given me a beautiful day,
Revealing loyalty laid away,
In hearts so tender and so true
That century's end so close in view
Will sure be lighted all the way
By gifts of books and flowers gay
And candled cake that came today.

Speed Limits Raised

The maximum speed limit for cars travelling on Alberta highways and roads has been raised from 55 m.p.h. to 60 m.p.h., effective July 1. The new speed limit will be effective for both day and night driving.

This was announced today by the Vehicle Branch of the Provincial Secretary's Dept. The change in the speed limit is the result of an amendment to the Vehicles and Highway Traffic Act passed at the last session of the legislature.

Maximum speed limit, day or night, for trucks is 50 miles per hour, highway buses, 55 miles per hour and school buses 40. Drivers are reminded that the new speeds are not effective until July 1.

Motorists were reminded again of the penalties arising from driving while under the influence of liquor. For conviction on the charge of driving while his ability was impaired by alcohol, a driver automatically loses his driving licence for two months if it is the first offence and for one year for a second or subsequent offence.

Any driver convicted of driving while intoxicated automatically loses his driver's or chauffeur's licence for a year.

Canadian Cattle Sold to U.S.

United States buyers showed confidence that foot and mouth disease in Saskatchewan would soon be overcome by buying eight top animals at the National Holstein Sale held in Oakville, Ont., May 19. The cattle will be kept in Canada until the embargo is lifted. They are, however, held at the purchaser's risk.

Top price at the sale was $6,500 paid for the eight months' old bull calf Glenafon Booster, owned by J. J. E. McCague of Alliston, Ont.

Quota Change Considered

The Wheat Board is reported to be considering a proposal that farmers be allowed to make minimum initial deliveries of 750 bushels of grain to elevators. This measure would be of assistance to the farmer with the small acreage who under the present quota system may not get enough money from initial delivery payments to meet harvesting expenses.

OUR COMPLETE SHORT STORY

SMART DOG

—By—
Walter Stanley Shatto

Plan of Old Joe Was Too
Smart for the Young Robber

ALL day the new highway was alive with traffic, but at night it was almost still. Old Joe Simpson—leaned contentedly back in his chair outside his gas station. Joe kept open just the same. He sort of enjoyed it, he said. He'd smoke his pipe and watch the stars. His collie dog would sleep at his feet, and the sheriff's cat would come to visit him from across the road.

A roadster slid up to the pump and interrupted his reverie. Joe walked leisurely over. A slim young fellow hopped out quickly.

"How many?" asked Joe in his soft voice.

The young man jerked out a pistol. "This is a stick-up, granddaddy. He snapped. 'Get inside. And keep quiet.'"

Joe shook his head sadly. "You fellows are getting awful thick. You're the fourth this summer. I wish you'd put that gun away. It's dangerous. And I ain't."

The younger man took a menacing step. "Get in and open the safe."

"There ain't no safe. There's a cash register."

"Open it up."

Old Joe Simpson shrugged and pressed a key on the register.

"Ain't so much in it, son," he said apologetically, disclosing a handful of change. "I send it out as soon as I get it."

"Baloney! I been watchin' this place since sundown. You done a lot of business a while back, and you ain't been out."

Joe Simpson smiled. "The dog taken it out," he said calmly. "I'll show you."

He whistled. The collie trotted in. "Watch this, son," Joe said. He rolled up a slip of plain white paper and put it into the dog's mouth.

"That's to Jim, Don," he ordered. The collie disappeared into the darkness outside.

"Where does he take it?"

"Down the road apiece. To my brother-in-law's house."

The young man's eyes narrowed. He picked up a piece of ignition wire. "Put out your hands, granddaddy. I'm going to tie you up and get that money."

"No," warned Joe softly. "I wouldn't do that. My brother-in-law's the sheriff around these parts. You might get hurt."

At the sound of the word sheriff, the young man whistled around to face the door, gun ready.

"That's all right, son," said Joe.

"Jim don't come over in the night time. Not unless I phone him."

"You're kiddin' me. The money's hid right here."

"Look around, son, if you want."

While the young man was rummaging, the collie came back and put his muzzle in the old man's hand. Joe stroked his head. "Smart dog!" he said. Then together they watched the search. Old Joe was smiling faintly, and it looked as if the dog was too good for him.

At last, with a curse, the young man put his gun in his pocket, and started back to the car. Joe followed close behind.

"No hard feelin's, son," he said. "We all got our trades, I guess."

The young man started abruptly. "Put 'em up!" commanded a deep voice.

In the shadow of the car was standing a stocky, powerful man. A silver badge shone brightly on his vest. He jabbed an old-fashioned six-shooter into the young man's ribs. The robber raised his hands.

"That's four of 'em this summer," Old Joe smiled and patted the collie's head. "Yep," he said. "We got 'em all. An' my dog."

"That paper, Jim?"

The sheriff handed over the white slip that the collie had carried.

Old Joe looked at the young man regretfully. "You need a vacation, son. You ain't smart enough for the stick-up trade."

He handed the paper. "See?" he said softly. "Nothing on it at all. But that means for Jim to hurry right over."

Mayor Finds He's Wearing Someone Else's Topcoat

A patron at a Lethbridge theatre found his topcoat missing from the checkroom after the show. Unclaimed was one of similar design, in the pocket of which was a coupon from an Edmonton street photographer who had snapped the wearer's picture.

Douglas Hackett, theatre manager, sent off 35 cents for the picture. When it arrived, he had no difficulty identifying it. He hurried to the office of Mayor L. S. Turcotte, who was surprised to find he'd been wearing another chap's coat for a week.

Saskatchewan Farm Workers May Go East For Harvest

PRINCE ALBERT, Sask.—Saskatchewan harvesters will be sent to Ontario this year to help gather that province's crop, Manager T. B. Conroy of the Prince Albert employment office said.

Mr. Conroy reported a considerable drop in Prince Albert's jobless men. But the number of unemployed women has risen.

Returned To Rolling Hills

Buffalo Are Attraction At Waterton Lakes National Park

WATERTON LAKES, Alta.—Buffalo days have returned to the rolling hills of southern Alberta. But today's herd is a far cry from that of its forefathers which grazed here more than a century ago. Under supervision of federal park wardens, six of these mighty monarchs of the plains migrated via truck from Elk Island Park, 25 miles east of Edmonton. They were placed in a "hab-bowl" paddock just west of the highway near the Pincher Creek entrance to Waterton Lakes National Park.

The paddock, two adjoining pastures, one for winter and one for summer, is situated on the historic site of the old Hudson Bay fur brigade trail which ran from Winnipeg over the south Kootenay pass to Vancouver. Parts of this trail are still evident in the buffalo paddock area.

The herd, recently enlarged to seven when a calf was born, will be kept reasonably small, about 12 head, because it is essentially a show herd.

The Waterton Lakes herd is descended from the famed Pablo herd of the flathead country in Montana. This herd was purchased by the Canadian government in 1908.

The Pablo herd, started in 1873 by Walking Coyote, a Pend d'Oreille Indian, remained on the range until 1908 when the Canadian government obtained an option on it delivered at the railway station at Ravalli, Mont. Transfer of the herd, 709 in number, to Canadian pastures took three years.

At the time of the purchase buffalo in Canada numbered only 20. Of the Pablo herd, 620 head were placed in a 200-square-mile enclosure at Watlington, Alta., and the remainder at Elk Island park.

The buffalo increased so rapidly that it was necessary to limit the number at Watlington to 8,000. In order to dispose of the surplus, some of the younger animals were transported to Wood Buffalo Park, a range of 10,000 square miles in northern Alberta.

The buffalo lived for nearly 40 years at Watlington but an outbreak of bovine tuberculosis forced another transfer. This time the herd was moved down the Athabasca river in Alberta to the Fort Smith area in the Northwest Territories, where it has remained.

In 1958 it was estimated there were 18,000 buffalo in Canada. Now the estimates are between 16,000 and 18,000.
